Pursuit of Decorative Art.

To the Editor:

I have in mind the decorative art work. There is always a demand for articles in that line, especially at Christmas and Easter mes. This kind of work does not require the long study that some imagine, but can the long study that some imagine, but can be acquired by a girl possessing ordinary good taste and indement in a few months, and by close practice and determination to follow it up she will be surprised to see what she can do with the brush in the way of painting and decorating.

By keeping her eyes open and observing she will gain many ideas as to how china, glass, slik, satin, wood, cardboard, and numerous other articles can be fashioned and beautified, so that she can realize over 100 per cent, on her labor. C. H. W.

A College of Feminine Trades.

When through with a good common school ducation, there ought to be free schools nd colleges where different trades would be aught, such as dressmaking (cutting and fitting included), millinery, typewriting, tenography and many other different trades that a poor girl might have an oppor-tunity to learn in order to fill said positions when needed.

Some parents have large families and ould not afford to pay for instructions, onaequently they are fitted for nothing.

Firms onght not to employ married women the have husbands to support them, monopolizing positions single girls in need should all.

A Morser.

Equal Chance with Her Brother.

In these days of flerce competition, when the question of sex is a secondary one and the highest degree of excellence attainable brain or hand, is eagerly sought after and brain or hand, is eagerly sought after and possesses marketable value, do the girl at least equal justice with the boy.

Study her tastes to discover any latent talent she may have for one of the due arts, be it for cooking or even mechanics. Cultivate it to the utmost of your ability, and if need be with many sacrifices.

Thus equipped, your girl is fitted to cope with what you have probably found a most exacting world. It is doubtless through mistaken kindness, but none the less cruel and shortsighted, that a girl is allowed to reach womanhoed more poorly armed to fight the battle of life than her brother.

LETTY KLEIN. SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Lasty Klain, a young actress, who lives with her father, a trustelen, stands at the door of the beattre talkfor with Herbert Sephson, a handsome and popular young noter. Herbert has an enemy in the countries, duy La sympto, his legar, who was rejected by Kitty, and is jealous of him. she confecced to her father that Herbert and she are in love with each other.

The ware no more Bundays for father and daughter after that. Herbert Jephson and daughter after that. Herbert Jephson was a gentleman, he add letter was going the bearing now of the property of the profession of the property of the profession of the profession he had adopted.

And so Herbert and Letty were engaged. though some of the chorus siris thought it thought some of the chorus siris thought it was a pity for him to be married so soon, yet they were the first to say that they were the first to say that they were the first to say that they were sing fellow: if he must be married they so so so they can say and some so.
